Presidential Address

Glen-Peter Ahlers, Sr., University of Arkansas Law Library

Hello 2000, we made it! Congratulations on making it to this side of the 1900s; feels good, doesn't it? Boy the changes are coming in fast already. This MAALL Markings, the first issue of the 2000s (the twenty hundreds?), is the last issue for Sandy Placzek. Sandy, the remaining half of the Sandy Placzek-Beth Smith Co-Editorship, has her hands full with too few fingers to plug too many holes in the Schmid dyke. Sandy has her normal duties at the Schmid Law Library, of course, but also has the opportunity to fill in for Sally Wise and help with Beth Smith's duties. Both Sally and Beth left for warmer climes (Sally to Florida and Beth to Arizona; do you blame 'em?). Sandy and Beth have provided us over a year of exemplary service, and each of us owes each of them our gratitude. Without the constant efforts of unselfish members we could not enjoy the benefits of reading such a terrific regional newsletter. It is their evenings and weekends that get used up to provide us with the terrific newsletter Markings has become. Next time you see Sandy, please give her your sincere thanks for working so long and hard on what often seems a thankless task. Hell, don't wait; send her an e-mail. Thank you Sandy, and I hope the empty positions at Schmid are filled soon.

While I am saddened to say good bye to Sandy, I am delighted to note that as she steps aside two more dedicated volunteers were shopping for some way to add to their experience at MAALL and for a way to pay back so many years of professional camaraderie. Our next issue will be edited by the dynamic duo from the University of Missouri-Columbia: Technical Services and Collection Management Librarian Needra Jackson, and Senior Research and Computer Services Librarian Steve Lambson. The transition is already underway and all three people involved feel it is going smoothly. While you are thanking Sandy, you might also take the time to drop Needra and Steve an e-mail of encouragement.

The rest of our MAALL stores (committees) are staffed and engaged. The local arrangements committee is gearing up for your visit to Fayetteville – curiously pronounced “Fed-vul” by long time locals – in October. And speaking of October, our dates have changed one week. There was a serious brouhaha throughout Arkansas in the fall/winter of 1999/2000. It concerned whether all home Razorback football games should be played in Fedvul, or continued to be split between Fedvul and Little Rock. I mean, the governor got involved; and a few state legislators even asked the attorney general whether or not they could legislate the issue. The result of all this hot air is that the weekend we had planned to have you over is now homecoming weekend, and the hotel begged and pleaded with us to renegotiate our contract ( I should note that the hotel balked at signing a contract and did so only after astute librarian-lawyer James R. Jackson, co-chair of our local arrangements committee, demanded more than a hand shake.). The written handshake netted us a few dollars off each room and gave us a hospitality suite. Thanks Jim, Lorraine, and the rest of the local arrangements folks for making sure we had a place to stay. Mark your calendars for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, October 12-14 2000; Fedvul or bust!

As ever, if there is anything you feel I can do to better serve MAALL, please let me know. My various addresses are widely available. Please use them to let me know what is on your mind. Meanwhile, Happy MAALLing!

Court of Appeals of Minnesota.
April 28, 1985.

536 Minn. 347 NORTH WESTERN REPORTER, 2d SERIES

Eleanor Louis BOOM, Respondent, v.
Roland David BOOM, Appellant.
No. C2-83-1956.
Court of Appeals of Minnesota.
April 28, 1985.
Review Denied June 27, 1985.

Upon motion of wife, appeal by husband from a judgment entered in a marriage dissolution proceeding was dismissed. Husband petitioned for reinstatement of appeal. The Court of Appeals, Peter S. Popovich, J., denied the petition, and husband petitioned for further review. The Supreme Court, Coynes, J., 361 N.W.2d 34, reversed and remanded. Upon remand, the District Court, Traverse County, Bruce N. Reuther, J., divided the parties' property. Appeal was taken. The Court of Appeals, Sedgwick, J., held that: (1) disproportionate award of marital property to husband was justified where 18 years lapsed between service of summons and complaint and marriage dissolution and property was acquired solely by husband during that period, and (2) trial court may amend its judgment any time before appeal time on judgment expires.

Affirmed.

1. Divorce ¶252.2(3)

Disproportionate award of marital property to husband was justified, where 18 years lapsed between service of summons and complaint and the marriage dissolution and the property was acquired solely by husband during that period.

2. Judgment ¶297

Trial court may amend its judgment any time before appeal time on judgment expires. 48 M.S.A., Rules Civ.Proc., Rules 62.02, 69.03.

3. Divorce ¶254(1, 2)

Property divisions are final and are not subject to modification except when they are product of mistake or fraud; however, this does not preclude trial court from reviewing award if the appeal period has not expired and a party timely moves for amendment pursuant to rule. 48 M.S.A., Rules Civ.Proc., Rule 62.02.

4. Divorce ¶254(1)

A property distribution in a judgment and decree is not "final" until after the appeal period expires.

See publication Words and Phrases for other judicial constructions and definitions.

Syllabus by the Court.

1. A disproportionate award of marital property to the husband is justified where 18 years elapsed between service of the summons and complaint and the dissolution and the property was acquired solely by the husband during that period.

2. A court may amend its judgment anytime before the appeal time on the judgment expires.

Robert E. Van Nostrand, Wheaton, for respondent.

John E. Mack, New London, for appellant.

Heard, considered and decided by POPOVICH, Chief Judge, and SEDGWICK, and NIERENGARTEN, JJ.

OPINION

SEDGWICK, Judge.

Appellant Roland Boom and respondent Eleanor Boom both challenge the trial court's division of property. Rolland also alleges the trial court erred: (1) in amending its judgment decree without any findings, explanation or justification; and (2) awarding Eleanor attorney fees. We affirm.

FACTS

Appellant Rolland and respondent Eleanor Boom were married in 1951. They

Time Capsule Project

Sue Burch, Public Relations Committee Chair

The Public Relations Committee has a special project planned for the Philadelphia annual meeting. We are inviting the Executive Board and all AALL Chapters, Committees, and SISs to prepare time capsules; we will then store the time capsules for twenty-five years. We encourage your group to participate.

You can help define our time and also be a unique part of law librarianship's past and future. Our committee will supply the time capsules. This is an opportunity to offer a glimpse of your past to our future selves and colleagues. During this summer's Philadelphia meeting the time capsules will be sealed and tucked away for twenty-five years at AALL archives.

The objects you choose to encapsulate can run the gamut from the profound and serious to the weird, silly and sentimental; it's up to you. We'll have more details on preparing your time capsules in the coming months, but the Public Relations Committee hopes your group will start thinking now about what items you want included in your time capsule.

Twenty-five years isn't that long. Look how fast the millennium went by! In July, 2025 we hope we will all still be around (it doesn't hurt to be optimistic) to attend the annual AALL meeting and watch as our time capsules are opened. For more information on how your group can become a permanent part of AALL's history, please call or e-mail me:
